Grand Meadow U.F.A.

Successful Annual Meeting

On the afternoon of December 13th the Grand Meadow U.F.A. and P.W.A. met at the home of Walter Larson, to mark the date of the local's annual meeting.

The business meetings were held separately. The U.F.A. returned to the same offices, with Mrs. Larsen as president, Mrs. E. Eide, vice-president; Mrs. C. Olson, secretary, with slight changes in the directorate. The U.F.A. made the following changes: Walter L. Gee, president; Arthur Eide, vice-president; Edgar Williams, vice-chairman; Messrs. E. Williams, A. L. Larsen, C. Olson, A. Albrecht and F. Crawford, directors.

After the business meetings the men adjourned to be entertained by the girls, who had prepared a program at these localities. The ladies also entertained the men at the annual meeting with supper and program. Next year's meeting place was good (it is a small affair) and furnished by the ladies, as also the supper.

A gathering was held at the date of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Gee, the many people present took advantage of the occasion to present their best wishes. A presentation was made by Mrs. W. Larsen in a well-chosen words, and Mr. and Mrs. Gee replied to Mr. and Mrs. Gee. Another local town and country who assisted in the program were - Mrs. Henry, C. Olson, Mrs. Olson, Mrs. Olson, Miss Pictus, Hollie, Mrs. C. Olson, Mrs. Pernell, Miss Emma Petersen, Mrs. Larsen, Mrs. Larsen and Mrs. Fronman.

On December 14th the local citizens gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson, for a meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The Junior Red Cross Hospital at Calmar, Alberta, was the host.

Both locals are away to an excellent start for the year. Many members who have been resting for a couple of years are back again, their determination to stick, and it is believed the look for favourable reaction has set in, and that the farm will be a success, and the local to its high pedestal. To those who are not in the organization a hearty invitation to join is given. The site of the new hall is to be taken at the corner of 10th and Main Street. Take the tip, join up with Grand Meadow, the local that never dies in time for the bigoyer supper and let us have a real rral good time.

Ideal weather conditions have been experienced during the entire autumn season, enabling farmers to practically complete their operations before severe winter set in. The grain crop of the year has presented fairly uniformly and the railways report a total of nearly 110,000,000 bushels of wheat and barley, and 100,000,000 bushels of corn and oats.

Financial returns have proved some disappointing, owing to prevailing low prices, but the fact that a considerable amount of the grain is grading No. 2 and lower, chiefly in the more northern areas, has been a factor in the low prices.

The precipitation during the year has been light, and the soil is fairly dry.

Livestock is in excellent condition, and there is a great abundance of feed, and the grain crop, which has yielded well, an outstanding feature the past season.

On the Thursday between Xmas and the New Year a ride will be given the Sunday school children and their parents to the local church. All parents interested in the work of the Sunday school are invited to come and bring the little ones.

The ride from 2.45, supper at 4.30. Remember the date, January 3rd.

"Canada, Natural Resources and Commerce"

A wealth of information on Canada's natural resources, developed industries, and commerce, and the like, is contained in this publication, compiled especially for the guidance of the Canadian public. It is the result of a quick survey of Canada's various industries, and of the broad features which impress one in the study of the Dominion by its limitations as well as its opportunities.

It gives, in short, a bird's eye view of Canada's physical assets, developed and latent.

"Canada - Natural Resources and Commerce" is a valuable addition to the student's library.

Photographs, in addition to the maps, showing the main economic features which the country is naturally divided into, its industrial areas, its population, its cities, its agricultural products, its timber, its mineral wealth, its water power, its mineral areas, and its fisheries.

Not only to the Canadian business man, but to the general public, the student abroad this volume gives a quick grasp of the larger features of the Dominion, and its opportunities for trade. Copies may be obtained free of charge, by sending a self addressed envelope to the Superintendent, Natural Resources and Commerce Service, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

It is done to perfection, to size the picture

Final Crop Report

With threshing in the province practically completed, sufficient number of threshers' returns have now been received by the Department of Agriculture to allow the final estimate of the average yields per acre of the various grain crops.

As was previously stated, the Department has found that most of the estimates of average yields made before harvesting were too low. The average yield per acre, when for the entire province is now placed at 28 bushels, and in the case of wheat, there being a very small acreage of the latter.

The total acreage of wheat in the province, as determined by the provincial field crop statistics, is 1,000,000 acres, and the yield per acre, based on the above estimate, is 28 bushels.

The U.F.A. will be especially interesting.

The HERALD wishes all its readers and friends the compliments of the season. May the coming year be prosperous for one and all.

The High School girls held an enjoyable dance in the town hall on Friday evening.

A. J. Crawford and John Higginson had very important business to transact in town on Friday.

Mc. Scott, of the Bank of Montreal staff, left for the east last week. During the time Mr. Scott was stationed here he made many friends who regret to see him leave.

Mrs. T. Warren, who has been suffering from a severe attack of blood poisoning, is now able to be up again.

Good old time revival meetings are being held in the Mission church nightly. A. E. Greeley, pastor and evangelist, is the speaker.

The weather prophets have again gone wrong. It is now exceedingly mild with sun shine, and the little snow that has practically disappeared. This, of course, has put a stop to curling or hockey, and the enthusiasts will require to exercise patience. A cold snap will put in an appearance some of these days.

The town was exceedingly busy Saturday afternoon, due no doubt to several reasons—the Christmas shopping, Red Room dinner, and the two meetings held in Empress Theatre. It is a sign of prosperity to see the town's streets crowded. Come again, your presence is always welcome.

The other day a farmer from the Brooks district called at the Hotel office to pay his respects, and other wise. In the conversation he gave the information that ducks were still feeding on the stubble fields by the thousand, apparently coming from Buffalo Lake, where there must be open water. Our friends are residing in the district about 20 miles, and never saw the birds remain so late in the season. The duck shooting season closed on the 14th.

The executive board of the C.P.A. and U.F.W.A. Convention group assembled in the Empress Theatre on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Baker, president, and the usual regular business was safely carried out. Mr. H. E. Brownlee, who was expected to attend, was delayed on account of an accident to his auto, and did not arrive until late in the afternoon. The meeting was opened with a formal and harmonious three-fold salute. Before the close the advisability of holding a public meeting at mid-distance date, when well known speakers would address, was considered.

At the Empress on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 21, 22, F. E. Alar, Ltd., will give as a first draw a pair of ladies' brown oxfords, and as a second draw a box of apples.

The Empress Managers will give a box of Jap oranges as a drawing for the ladies' department, and on Dec. 23, Gen. Bowker will give one ton of coal to the person holding lucky number, which will be drawn Tuesday night. Instead of a draw for the children, the usual Christmas treat will be given them—admitted free to the show on Tuesday night.

CHAPTER III

The Princess' Story

Half-way from the clatter of a passing horse and a wild whomp started me and I makes good, madly by leaps and bounds. I was so surprised as he got ahead of me and uttering a whoop of joy, I thought I would have done credit to a Stage Indian. With a pony's shake of the head I was off, and I was off. Therefore, when our entrance turned down into the gate of the Chateau of Vincennes, I was in a sweat. And when the men on guard, who happen to be holding to d'Alencon's squadron, ran up to me, I was so nervous that I was suppressed close as I was. I was so nervous that I was as white as a sheet of paper.

I bowed myself out and left the room, and I was able to return to my apartment. I went straight to the galant and made the wares for the day, and I was off again.

There was a moment's pause before the door was opened, and then the Princess' maid, who had been advanced to d'Alencon and informed him that Monsieur and she were to be married, turned.

The servant added, plating me to me:

"It's Royal Highness after me! I want to say that, if you were acompanying me, I would be off at once! I was but a wild boy, but I was off at once!"

Armenelle blushed and murmured to me:

"A foolish way of putting it, I wonder what the message was to be if you had not 'accompanied' me to that Monsieur would do?"

"It seemed to me that I was not altogether appreciate the honour of the message," he said. "This was one of the few times when I did not understand it."

The Comte de Provence was trembling in his cather, and we exited he sprung up and came forward to me.

"Heaven be praised that you have returned, M. de Brion!"

He took my hand, he presented my do so and, smiling both and I, we had exercise for an hour, and then I was off again.

It was furiously at d'Alencon's treatment and decided that, in the end, when the whole story had gone through the court, he would be sent to the King, and he took my hand and said:

"Now, M. de Brion, come with me to the King's apartments on the ground floor of the capital pavilion, and I will be sure to have you in the King's presence with you."

He led me through the Chateau to the King's apartments on the ground floor of the capital pavilion, and soon we were down the grand staircase.

ace and regarded by the various con-

President of Mexico Personally Directing Troops On Firing Line

El Paso, Texas.—President Alvaro Obregon is on the firing line personally directing the troops who, under General Andrade and Amaro, are attacking Ciudad Juarez. A telegram received by the Mexican Government at El Paso from Mexico

Announced by the example of the dictator, thousands of rebels have occupied Vera Cruz for Mexico City, with which to assist in the overthrow of the Constitutional Government. From Mexico City, rebels have, meanwhile, received arms and equipment, and left the forces under General Obregon.

At Tepic the major in command of the revolution tried to turn his forces over to the Adolfoistas, but his command refused to obey orders, and the town is still loyal to the Obregonists.

While reports show that all military chiefs invited by De la Huerta to join his forces have pledged their support to the Constitutionalists, it has been confirmed that many divisions are occurring in the Federal ranks at Juarez. At the capital little credit is given to news from the revolutionary army.

The outcome now is considered to be more favorable, particularly in view of the rebellion by General Obregon.

Working classes in Mexico City are independent over the doubtful issue.

At Tepic the rebels are rallying to the colors, as the rebels are blamed for his death.

Should Devote Attention To Means For Eradicating Rust

Montreal.—The metallurgical value of the work on scientific research was emphasized here by Dr. H. M. Doery, president of the University of Alberta, and chairman of the Canadian Council on Science and the Industrial Research in an address to the Canadian Club here.

He stressed the importance of the work of the Farmers' Research who have covered the principle of the electric furnace, today, Dr. Doery, there was ten million dollars invested in developing conditions in electrical engineering, while in electrical engineering, there was a loss of 20 per cent.

Compared to the present day, it is evident that in 1916 there were 100,000 bushels of wheat in Western Canada, while in 1920, there was 1,000,000 bushels, today there was one million in Canada, devoting part of his time to the subject. He believed that a group of experts should be devoting the means of eradicating rust.
